

Empowered. (verb)

The benefit to you of participating in one of the strategic career workshops that we're running across London.

- 90 minutes in your office with 10-15 colleagues
- Insights into how to build your career strategically
- The NakedBox™ framework to take away and share
- An expert to guide you through

There's so much going on in the economy and the world at the moment that you're too busy not to take 90 minutes to focus on yourself. Make sure you are avoiding the pitfalls of managing your career, and know what your expectations of your employer are going to be in 6 months and 18 months time so you are prepared. This short workshop will take you through the NakedBox™ model that we have been teaching to boards of multinational companies around the world. It shows the phases that we all go through in our careers and the skills either side of the transition points that we need to master in order to keep moving forward. It will allow you to see where you are going to make your ROI with the company you are working for and it will empower you to show them how you are adding value to the business.

To get started with organising a workshop in your company email events@nakedgenerations.com or contact a member of the events team through the Naked Generations site: www.nakedgenerations.com

Workshops are priced at £30 pp and you need a minimum of 10 people to get started. For more help on starting up a NakedBox™ workshop in your company just drop us an email. If you don't have enough people to start a workshop drop us a line too and we'll add you to a centralised list and when we get enough to run a workshop we'll let you know where it is! Want to run a workshop outside London? Give us a call: 0208 333 0465 or email events@nakedgenerations.com.